Is Ty Cobb worth $15,000 salary a season? Here is what he accomplished in one game recently: Made three hits in three times up, scored three runs himself, made one triple, stretched a single into a double when an outfielder fumbled, worked the pitcher for two passes, stole home in a pinch, brought home the winning run, retired four men on putouts. Is he worth $15,000?

Frank Chance needed a shortstop so badly that he has traded Lelivelt and Stump to the Cleveland club for Roger Peckinpaugh. Stump is rated as a good hitter, Lelivelt as a star fielder. Peckinpaugh is a weak hitter, but he can field brilliantly.

Horse racing will be revived in the east at Belmont park next week after a lapse of three years. The feature opening event is the Metropolitan handicap, worth $2,500.

Willie Ritchie, lightweight champion, is guaranteed $1,000 for a twenty-round battle with Joe Rivers at San Francisco, July 4. Eddie Graney, noted referee, will stage the match. Rivers will get $7,000.

Penn and Cornell are favored to win leading honors in the intercollegiate track meet at Harvard stadium next Friday and Saturday. Old records are in danger of being shattered.

Coach Courtney's prediction that his Cornell crew would win the regatta was proven true when the Ithaca crew walked away from Harvard in Saturday's eight-oared race.

Veteran Jerome D. Travers won the metropolitan golf championship for the third straight time Saturday.

Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature. Arrows show direction of wind. First figures, lowest temperature past 24 hours; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

The atmospheric disturbance that was on the middle Atlantic coast yesterday has now advanced to Maine, attended by rains along the coast. The barometer is high, and the weather fair and warm in the south.

The area of low barometer that prevails on the plains is now moving slowly eastward, and the region of greatest disturbance is located in the northwest. Showers and thunderstorms have occurred around Lake Michigan, and throughout the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys.

An area of high barometer is approaching the Pacific coast, and the temperature is somewhat lower in the plateau region, as a consequence.

BEST KNOWN YOUNG DRIVER IN AMERICA

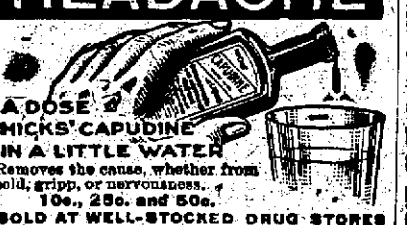

Tommy Murphy.

Tommy Murphy is the best known young driver in the United States. He has an enviable reputation as a winning pilot of trotters and pacers. He is a marvelous reinman with as light a pair of hands as were ever given a driver and can hold a tired horse together better than most men who take a tremendous hold of one. On the home stretch, he is a demon of the sulky. Among the many stars he has been behind are Leonard Trampstead, Brace Girdle, Queen Worthy, Lady Jones, Native Belle, R. T. C. Barons, Virginia, Dave Halle, George Gano, Twinkling Dan, Director Jay.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

BREAD UPON THE WATERS.

This is a story from life or, as the children would say, a "really-true story."

Years ago, when Miss Marion L. Covert of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., was a child of six, she often visited relatives in Marlboro. In summers there board, at a neighboring farmhouse a middle-aged business man of Chicago. His name was Gerald Thurston.

The little girl gave him flowers and hunted for him the insect-fruits. Naturally there sprang up a friendship and the man often returned to the farmhouse where the little girl still brought him fruits and flowers.

Then they drifted out of each other's life as people will. The girl, away as a cripple, grew to womanhood; the man, to old age.

Maybe it was the fact that she was a cripple that made little Marion so thoughtful of others. Have you not noticed that those who are themselves afflicted are quicker in their sympathy for their fellows?

A few days ago Miss Marion L. Covert was surprised to learn that she had been left $350,000 by the will of the late Gerald Thurston of Chicago.

Still thoughtful of others, the first cry of the crippled girl was that now she could take her parents to live with her in New York.

We get what we give. The child gave kindness with no thought of return, but the seed took root and grew through the years and at last bore the fruit of a greater kindness that came back to her.

As it is in nature so in life. Whatever kind of seed we plant that kind of a crop we reap. Corn brings forth corn. The oak grows from the acorn of another oak.

"Every tree bringeth forth fruit after its own kind."

He who sows hatred reaps hatred. He who sows good deeds reaps good deeds. Sometimes the crop is deferred, but sooner or later it ripens.

It is like the bread upon the waters that returns after many days.

Can you see the kindness of the little crippled child?

Do you imagine that in God's good green world such deeds pass unnoticed?

FAMOUS AMERICAN INDIANS

ALBERT PATSON TERNHUNE

RED EAGLE.

Andrew Jackson—lanky and all dressed, his long, homely face tanned with the suns of a terrific Alabama campaign against Red Eagle, the Creek chief, sat at the door of his tent one morning in 1814. Nearby lounged a throng of tired out militiamen. The campaign had been long and wearying. The hostile Creek Indians, led by Red Eagle, had more than once put Jackson's militia to rout and by the Fort Mims massacre had roused the whole country to fury. The Creek war was nearly over, the women and children of the "hostiles" were herded in the woods. The braves were killed or scattered. But Red Eagle—scourge of Alabama and incarnate war spirit of the savages—was still at large.

A Deed of Heroism. Suddenly the thunder of horse-hoofs broke on the camp's quiet. A rider—bronze of skin and with the face and figure of a sculptured god—dashed up to the general's tent, reined in his gray charger and sat calmly looking down upon the conqueror of the Creeks. From a hundred throats rose the amazed, furious yell:

"Red Eagle! Kill him!"

The man on horseback paid no more heed to these cries nor to the rifles leveled at his breast than to the buzz of summer flies. He continued to gaze stolidly down at Jackson. The general found his voice at last and gasped in incredulous wonder:

"Red Eagle! You dare ride into my camp when you murdered hundreds of innocent white women and children at Fort Mims?"

"I do not fear you," replied the Indian. "Red Eagle fears no man. I ask nothing for myself. Kill me if you choose. I come to beg you to feed your starving women and children, whom this war has left homeless and without food."

Again, from the militiamen, rose the howl: "Kill him!" But Jackson, whirling about to face his soldiers, cried: "The man who would kill any one so brave as this Indian would rob the dead! Red Eagle, I have offered peace terms to the Creeks. If you do not like those terms you may ride away in safety from my camp and resume hostilities. But if you are taken again I shall hang you."

"There is no longer that choice left me," retorted Red Eagle. "Once my voice could rouse my warriors to battle. But the dead cannot be roused. You have offered peace terms to the Creeks. Your talk is good. My people shall listen to it."

Red Eagle was born about 1770. His mother was a Creek princess, his father a Scotch trader. From boyhood Red Eagle was a hero among his mother's people. His beauty, his courage, his marvelous eloquence, his crafty diplomacy soon made him head chief, or overlord, of the whole southern confederacy of tribes that composed the Creek Nation. When the war of 1812 with England was brewing, many Spanish and British emissaries went among the Creeks to stir them up against the United States government. Tecumseh, too, by his oratory and "miracles" enlisted a large part of the tribes on the side of the British. He found a ready ally in Red Eagle.

A United States garrison, 245 strong, under command of Major Beasley, was entrenched at Fort Mims. Thither, too, came nearly 300 white women and children for refuge. For there had been several clashes between Creeks and settlers and the outlying districts were unsafe. Red Eagle, with about 1,000 braves, attacked the fort in late August, 1813. For five hours the battle waged. At last the Indians slew most of the defenders and set fire to the fort's wooden buildings. The battle was won. Nearly all the able-bodied white men were killed. The savages began to murder the women and children. Red Eagle besought his warriors to spare these defenseless victims. But his words fell on deaf ears. His own life was threatened by the war-mad braves. So he left the scene and rode away alone, refusing to look on such horrors. Out of more than 500 white persons in Fort Mims, only about twenty escaped.

Red Eagle's Last Stand. The news of this outrage set all the south ablaze. Andrew Jackson, weak from a wound received in a duel, was lifted onto his horse and took command of the avenging soldiers. Battle after battle was fought. Generally the white men won. But more than once Red Eagle's military genius served to inflict a severe defeat upon the militia. The climax of the war came at the battle of Horseshoe on the Tallapoosa river. There the Indians (contrary to their usual custom) threw up fortifications and awaited Jackson's attack. For a long time the issue was in doubt. But at last the militia "rushed" the trenches, then slaughtered and utterly routed the savage warriors. Jackson's loss in this fight was 55 killed and 146 wounded. But he had forever wrecked the power of Red Eagle and had crushed the Creek Nation. It was after the Horseshoe encounter that Red Eagle (or "Billy Weatherford," as he was known to many of the Alabamians) settled down on a Monroe County, Alabama, plantation.

The gallant old chieftain died March 9, 1824, from over-fatigue caused by fighting and slaying a bear.

Milton L. Clemons.

Milton L. Clemons, a cousin of the late Mark Twain, has just arrived in this country from Japan, where he has been serving as a teacher of English for the past two years in a Japanese government school. He is returning to his home in Marshall, Mo., and doesn't intend to go back to Japan again because he has found, he says, the Japanese to be too narrow-minded.

"Every Japanese has the idea that some day Japan will rule the world," says Clemons. "Since their victory over the Russians they have steadily become more independent until now their attitude is one of arrogance."

Don't Feed Up Your Profits This Year Into Horses Or Mules

Now is the time to settle the question of whether you are going to feed up about one-fourth of your this year's crop into horses or mules. Statistics show that it takes just much to keep them. They eat every day but they average only about 100 lbs. days work—the other 250 days you have to feed them all for nothing.

That's why so many men are changing to Tractor Farming. A Tractor eats nothing when not working. And even when working it costs less than to feed horses. Records kept by men who have replaced their horses with Avery Tractors and Plows show a saving of over half the expense of horse plowing and a big saving in expense of other farm work. Also save on the men and horses crops by doing the work quick at the right time.

Avery Tractors and Plows make Power Farming

SOLD ON APPROVAL—AT LOW PRICES—AND FULLY GUARANTEED. When you can buy on such terms and at the low Avery prices—only $1200 for 12-20 H. P. Tractor, $2000 for 20-30 H. P. and $2500 for 30-40 H. P.—you surely must investigate Power Farming. Ask for new 1913 Complete Book of Avery Tractors and Plows with full description and full information about the Avery Mutual Benefit Selling Plan.

A Little Talk On Quality:

There are a great many places where you can buy goods at extremely low prices, but experience except in rare exceptions, teaches us that the goods are worth no more than the low prices paid for them.

Sometimes we wonder when reading in other advertisements glowing descriptions of articles they are selling, but when these goods are compared with our line of the same articles ninety-nine cases out of a hundred we don't wonder long. Our has the quality they have not.

Price is only one of the things to be considered, for if you fail to get the quality you simply throw away good money, no matter how small the amount may be. Therefore, our policy is and always has been, to sell the Right Quality at the Right Price, and you will find invariably that a lower price than ours means also a correspondingly lower quality. It is the combination of price and quality in which this store is strong.

Special Notice: All members of Harry L. Clifford Camp No. 23, United Spanish War Veterans, are requested to meet in their hall on Memorial Day, Friday at 8 o'clock A. M., and take part in the regular exercises at the cemetery. Any veteran not a member of the camp is especially invited.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Roethe Gives Talk: Prof. E. L. Roethe addressed the high school students this morning on "Past and Present Affairs in Russia." He discussed briefly the history of the country, its importance in the realm of business and commerce, its military pretensions, and its recent advancement in matters of administration and government.

Sally Given Chance: "Baldy" Jackson, who was placed under arrest yesterday morning, was arraigned before Judge Fifield this morning on a charge of intoxication. The case against him was held open until 2 o'clock with the understanding that he leave town before that time and not come back to this work in the country. Jackson is considered a good workman but his sobriety cannot stand the pressure of city life.

Back From Conference: City Engineer C. V. Kerch returned last night from Madison where he held an informal conference with Engineer Harrington of the railway commission concerning the plans for the Milwaukee street bridge. Mr. Harrington remarked that everything examined thus far had been satisfactory. A formal and complete report is expected from the commission by the week.

Will See Races: P. L. Davis and John Brown left this afternoon for Indianapolis, where they will witness the Indianapolis Sweepstakes races tomorrow.

Married This Noon: Henry Palmer of Brooklyn, New York, and Miss Laura Kiltz of Casey, Illinois, were married this noon at the M. E. parsonage, Rev. Williams officiating.

CITIZENS TO HONOR DEPARTED SOLDIERS

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCES WILL AWAKEN MEMORY OF NATION'S PATRIOTS.

TO DECORATE GRAVES

Spanish War Veterans Will Join With G. A. R.—Afternoon Exercises At Myers Theatre.

Soldiers of '98 and soldiers of '98, men who died that the Union might endure, and who died that its honor as a guardian and protector of its weaker neighbors might remain unblemished, will be honored in Janesville tomorrow with patriotic exercises and memory freshening observances of Memorial Day. All that is wanting to insure their complete success are sunny skies, and these though probable, are not definitely assured by the weather man.

Members of the Grand Army of the Republic, W. H. Sargent Post, No. 20, the local camp of Spanish War Veterans will cooperate in the exercises of the day. They will meet at 8 o'clock in the morning and will march to the Grand Hotel, accompanied by the Moose band and the Spanish War Veterans, the latter marching at their own headquarters. From the point mentioned the G. A. R. members and their escorts will take street cars to Oak Hill and Mt. Olivet cemeteries where the ritual of the Grand Army and the Spanish War Veterans will be read by the chaplains of the respective orders and the graves of their dead will be decorated. The Women's Relief Corps and Auxiliary to the Spanish War Veterans will provide the floral decorations for the graves. There are twelve veterans of the Spanish War buried in Janesville.

Beginning at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon the veterans and their escorts will march to the Grand Hotel and back to the Myers Theater where the formal entertainment will be given. The program will be carried out under the direction of a committee of the day, consisting of J. E. Carle, president of the day, J. L. Bear, Laban Fisher, R. R. Resseguie, J. W. Lowden, and T. D. Bidwell. The numbers to be given are as follows:

Prayer—The Rev. T. D. Williams, pastor of the Cargill Methodist church.

Chorus—Double Male Quartette, Wisconsin School for the Blind.

Readings—John A. Logan's first general order for Memorial Day, and Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. S. C. Burnham.

Address—J. T. Hooper, Superintendent of School for the Blind.

Music—Orchestra.

Song—"The Grand Army Button," "Rock County," by all accompanied by orchestra.

Benediction—The Rev. T. D. Williams.

Decorations of the soldiers' graves this day falls to the Women's Relief Corps, who have appointed the following ladies to this position of honor:

Division No. 1—Miss Ella Willis and Mrs. Helen Osgood.

Division No. 2—Mrs. Ann Farish, Mrs. Mary Bear.

Division No. 3—Mrs. Elizabeth Trambille, Mrs. Mary Carle.

Division No. 4—Mrs. Mary Spicer, Mrs. Picketing.

Division No. 5—Mrs. Mary Caniff, Miss Louise Dixon.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM FOR BLIND STUDENTS

H. W. Wood, Department Instructor of G. A. R., Will Give Address This Evening.

"Decoration Day" exercises will be held at the Wisconsin School for the Blind this evening at eight o'clock. The speaker for the occasion will be Mr. H. W. Wood, patriotic instructor, G. A. R. Department of Wisconsin. He will talk on "Why We Keep Memorial Day."

Mr. Wood is a very pleasing and entertaining speaker. He talked to the school last year on "The Development of the American Flag" and gave one of the best addresses even given at the institution.

The exercises this evening are open to the public, and it is hoped that those interested from the city will attend. The following is the program:

Music—Orchestra.

Reading—Supt. J. T. Hooper.

Chorus—"To Thee, O' Country," Eichberg.

Address—"Why We Keep Memorial Day," H. W. Wood, Patriotic Instructor, G. A. R. Dept. of Wisconsin.

Music—Double Male Quartette.

Song—"America," by the school.

Music—Orchestra.

IT'S CRAMMING TIME NOW FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

The seniors of the local high school will hold their examinations next week day and Tuesday of next week. The juniors will hold their examinations on the following Friday and Monday, while the two lower classes will write theirs on Tuesday and Wednesday. This year there will be many lower class girls taking part in the pageant, so the examinations for the sophomores and freshmen will take place early enough to allow the students to witness the pageant and still have time to take part in it.

Fine Bill at Apollo

Special Program for Decoration Day at Apollo Theatre is of the Finest Order.

Anticipating a very large crowd at all performances Decoration Day, Manager Zanias of the Apollo Theatre, has arranged for a splendid program. The headliner is "Black Comedy Circus," which especially pleases the youngsters. Ponies, Monkeys, Dogs, and other animals, including the only Original Mule on the American stage, give a 20-minute performance that is full of fun. Next comes "Allie Vaughn in a Pianola," which is a very good one like this number. Gilmore & Castle, "Those Classy Boys" present a singing and dancing sketch that is a sure cure for the blues. Two of the best motion pictures obtainable will be shown through the Kinetoscope. You shouldn't miss this program.

STATE RURAL MAIL MEN MEET TOMORROW

Sessions Will Be Called To Order at 9:30 O'clock A. M.—Cooper To Give Address.

Janesville, tomorrow, will open its gates to the Rural Mail Carriers of Wisconsin who begin the sessions of their tenth annual convention at the city hall at 9:30 A. M. The meeting will be called to order by County President Fred J. Hart after which the Rev. T. D. Williams will give the invocation. Mayor James A. Fathens will welcome the carriers to the city and give a brief address, as will also Postmaster C. L. Valentine. W. G. Arle, the State President, will be introduced by Mr. Hart and give the response to the address of welcome. Other numbers on the morning program are the roll call of officers, an address by City Attorney W. H. Dougherty, and the appointment of committees.

The principal numbers on the afternoon program are addresses by Congressman Henry Allen Cooper and W. D. Brown, editor of the R. F. D. News. In the evening a banquet will be served the carriers at the Baptist church. F. B. Bessenthal presiding as toastmaster. The program will consist of music by Miss Caroline W. Palmer, Miss C. M. Palmer and Fred Tauchie, an address by J. F. Carle, toast by W. D. Brown, and reading by Mrs. J. B. Day.

MOOSE BAND CONCERT NEXT WEEK TUESDAY

First of Series of Program Will Be Given in Court House Park—New Uniforms Have Arrived.

On Tuesday night of the coming week the first band concert of the year will be given by the Moose band at the Court House Park. The members of the band have received their new uniforms and the solicitors of the contributions to defray the expenses meet with a ready response. It is the intention of the Moose lodge to hold a concert on every week until the first of September.

JANESVILLE URGED AS SITE FOR FAIR BEFORE COMMITTEE

BOWER CITY, WITH SUPPORT FROM NEIGHBORING CITIES, INCLUDING ROCKFORD, MAKE STRONG SHOWING.

RIVALRY GROWS KEEN

Milwaukee, Madison and Oshkosh Delegations Present to Make Last Arguments Before Report Goes to Legislature.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
Madison, May 29.—Declaring that Janesville has particularly good facilities for handling a state fair and its attractions, a delegation from that city and other in the vicinity, appeared today before the legislative committee investigating a location for the state fair. The committee was headed by Mayor James A. Fathens, who was the first to address the committee.

Rockford presented its claims in vigorous competition with Madison, Fond du Lac, and Milwaukee, whose citizens are anxious to keep the fair in the Wisconsin metropolis. Owing to the fact that the Milwaukee delegation arrived at ten o'clock when the hearing was scheduled and when they were supposed to state their case, the claims of Janesville were first heard by the committee.

Mayor Fathens, who briefly outlined the advantages, which the city held out and landed a telling argument for the Bower City when he read the following telegram which he found when he arrived at the Park Hotel here this morning.

Rockford, Ill., May 29.
Mayor James A. Fathens.

Parke, Madison, Wis.—All classes of citizens of Rockford, Winnebago county, and the whole of Northern Illinois, are watching your efforts and are hopeful of your success in having the Wisconsin state fair moved to our city. The train accommodations between here and Milwaukee are miserable and our own state fair is too far south. If you are successful we guarantee a record-breaking crowd from this city annually.

Rockford Manufacturers and Shippers Association.

Rockford Merchants and Business Men Association.

T. H. Reber, secretary.

M. O. Mohr and M. P. Richardson talked in favor of Janesville following Mayor Fathens' plea after which an adjournment was taken to one o'clock for the members of the committee from the assembly where a vote was to be taken on the other's pension bill.

When the hearing was resumed at one o'clock, L. F. Gettle of Edgerton made a vigorous appeal on behalf of Janesville and was followed by William Dockery of Walworth, supervisor of assessments from the county of Belmont and favorable consideration of Janesville.

The following composed the Janesville delegation: M. O. Mohr, H. H. Blum, Frank E. Crook, M. P. Richardson, Alvin Hemmens, P. W. Zimmerman, Charles Pittman, E. Q. Bangs, Mayor James A. Fathens, Henry Bergman, S. M. Jacob, and David Atwood.

Of Rockford, Henry Johnson, M. O. Mohr, and E. Q. Bangs, of Edgerton, Senator L. E. Gillingham, of Beloit, and William Dockery of Walworth.

The Milwaukee delegation was headed by Frank G. Canno, while Mayor Milvina was the principal speaker in favor of the Oshkosh-Fond du Lac site. All four delegations would complete their hearing late this afternoon after which the committee will decide and formulate a report to be given until the first part of next month in which they will come to a decision in the legislature.

SENIORS WEAR MOURNING ON LAST DAY OF SCHOOL

Although as freshmen they longed for the time when they would be through with the worries of school, members of the senior class were sad and depressed today which was the last day of the regular class work.

As outward expression of their feeling each member of the class wore a black armband and the entire class marched into the main room with solemn faces.

LOCAL INDUSTRIES OFFERED A CHANCE TO MAKE A SHOWING

Manufacturers Will Boost Janesville as Well as Their Own Business by Entering Display in U. C. T. Parade.

Janesville manufacturers are offered an unusual opportunity to loom the city and their own business during the annual convention of the Commercial Travelers of Wisconsin. The local lodge has extended an invitation to all the factories requesting that each one enter a float in the big parade which will be one of the features of Convention Day, Friday, June 6th.

E. T. Fish, who is chairman of the committee of the Twenty-five Town club and in charge of this section of the procession, has been busy with other members of the committee, for over a week visiting the different factories. While this is a busy season for most of the manufacturing plants, managers have been ready to make their part and without a question every industry will have a display.

Mr. Fish has taken the further responsibility of securing teams and wagons for all the floats and will attend to every detail in order to make this feature of the convention which will be particularly Janesville's, an unquestioned success.

When it is pointed out that there will be 1,200 to 1,500 traveling men from every part of the state representing all sorts of businesses, and covering a vast territory, it will be seen how important will be an exceptional showing of Janesville-made products. The Knights of the Grip will form the main section of this moving parade on Friday. Many of the delegations will be in uniform and there will be seven or eight bands in the line of march. With the cooperation of the local business and the city section of parade will be a most creditable one and a big advertisement for the city.

OPEN TRACK WRECKS TRAIN NEAR MADISON

St. Paul Passenger Train Wrecked at Black Earth—Negroes Have Flaming Wagon Train.

The St. Paul passenger train No. 23, operating from Janesville to North McGregor, Iowa, leaving this city at seven o'clock yesterday morning, was wrecked yesterday, six miles west of Madison near the station of Black Earth. The engineer, James Mills, and his fireman, both of Milwaukee, were severely injured.

The train was in charge of Conductor Thomas of Milwaukee, and was traveling at a high rate of speed when the engine rounded a curve and the crew saw an open space in the track about twenty feet wide. The train was traveling at a high rate of speed when the engine rounded a curve and the crew saw an open space in the track about twenty feet wide.

The engine struck the ties and was turned over on its side. The tender, baggage and express cars rolled down the embankment. All except one of the passenger coaches left the track but fortunately did not go over the embankment.

Engineer Mills and his fireman suffered the worst injuries and they will be laid up for some time. The baggage man and the expressman sustained minor bruises, and all the passengers were badly shaken up.

The Milwaukee delegation was headed by Frank G. Canno, while Mayor Milvina was the principal speaker in favor of the Oshkosh-Fond du Lac site. All four delegations would complete their hearing late this afternoon after which the committee will decide and formulate a report to be given until the first part of next month in which they will come to a decision in the legislature.

LABOR LIKES HIM; SAYS SO HIMSELF

Fred E. Lewis, the new Republican congressman from Allentown, Pa., says in his biography in the Congressional Directory, after telling at some length of the various industries organized by himself, notably a bank and a telephone company, that he is especially popular with the working classes and that he has been largely instrumental in bringing about settlements of labor disputes. He also says that he is a member of one of the oldest and most prominent families of Lehigh county. Mr. Lewis is about forty-eight, is married and has two children.

CLASS EXERCISES
GIVEN LAST NIGHT

High School Students Give An Excellent Program—Milton Glee Club Sings Several Selections.

[Special to the Gazette.]
Edgerton, May 28.—The class exercises were given last evening in Royal hall to a very large and appreciative audience. The Milton College Glee Club, which furnished several songs during the evening, was composed of vocalists of very high standard and were applauded heartily by the audience.
The class prophecy, given by Mabel Brown, Stella Attlessey and Beulah Pomeroy, and read by Beulah Pomeroy, proved to be a very interesting feature. Miss Pomeroy made her appearance on the stage with a large, red book and inscribed on the front cover was "The Crimson," E. H. S., 1923. The book was immense in size and it "The Crimson" is that large in ten years, the school will surely have a paper to be proud of.

All seemed to have a great desire to make sarcastic thrusts at the expense of the underclassmen and especially the class of 1914. However, considering "every knock a boost," the underclassmen are perfectly contented. It seems, for the flattering remarks they received. The program given was as follows:
Music—Milton College Glee Club.
Salutatory—Jay Campbell.
Class History—Adele Wentworth.
Class History—Milton College Glee Club.
Class poem—Susie LaMar.
Class prophecy—Beulah Pomeroy.

Evansville, May 28.—The local W. R. C. entertained at a banquet, dinner yesterday to twenty-five members of the Edgerton lodge, eleven members of the Stoughton lodge, thirty-three of the Madison W. R. C. and thirty-four from Janesville and two from Fond du Lac. The banquet dinner was served by the ladies of the First Baptist church, after which a splendid program was given.

Lora Maloney of Fond du Lac, Department President; Mrs. Wheeler, Department Secretary; also of Fond du Lac and Mrs. W. H. Grinnell, past president, of Beloit, were present.

The Evansville W. R. C. are entertaining this evening the Knights of Edgerton and Brodhead, about two hundred in all. The banquet is being served at the Central House, after which the ladies of the Knights will be conferred by the third rank teams of both lodges.

Baseball Game.
The baseball season will be opened here tomorrow when an Oregon team meets the home team. The lineup will be as follows: Sholtz at first, Gardner at second, Jones at short, Abts, third, and Gillies behind the bat will form the wall around Munsen; who will do the pitching. Reckord, Fay, Colbert and Wilder will chase off in the outfield. Munsen who pitched for Argyle, last Saturday, played a no hit game with sixteen strikeouts. Abts was manager-captain of the Elroy team last year and is certainly a whirling d'accomplish the sphere out of the dust. Sholtz has played in the state league teams. Jones was captain of the high school team this year and Gardner, Reckord and Gillies are all well known on the diamond. The game is sure to be an interesting one. A good day and a good crowd being the only essentials.

CUBANS WILL HONOR
MEMORY OF SAILORS

Representation of Cuban Government Arrives in New York to Pay Tribute to Crew of Battle-ship Maine.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, May 28.—The protected cruiser, Cuba, arrived early today, bearing representatives of the Cuban government, navy and army to pay tribute here to the memory of the United States sailors who perished when the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor fifteen years ago. By special permission from the state as in such cases, the Cuban forces will be welcomed ashore under arms tomorrow, to participate in a parade preceding the dedication of a monument to the Maine's dead.

The welcome of booming guns from twelve dreadnaughts of the United States north Atlantic fleet awaited the visiting warship when she proceeded from the quarantine station up to the Hudson river anchorage under escort of the gunboat Yankton, to be aboard later in the day by an official reception committee and to send ashore her own delegation of three special envoys to pay respects to Mayor Gaynor.

In addition to three envoys and the usual naval force the cruiser brought a battalion of coast artillery and a military band to participate in the parade. The men include both whites and blacks; discrimination as to color having been ruled against by President Menocal.

CLEVELAND MEN INVITED TO EMPEROR'S JUBILEE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, May 28.—Carrying a special invitation from the German emperor, William, Dunning of Richmond, Ind., and Paul Werner of Cleveland, O., sailed today for Hamburg to participate in the great celebration of the silver jubilee of Emperor William. Werner is a storekeeper in Cleveland and Dunning is a locksmith. Both are natives of Germany. As young men they served together in the "Kaiser's Company," the First regiment of the guard, one of the crack regiments of the imperial army. At that time the commander of the company was Prince William, now king of Prussia and German emperor, in arranging for the jubilee celebration, the Kaiser directed that every surviving member of his old command should be invited to participate in the festivities and that special preparations should be made for their reception and entertainment while in Berlin.

Commencement at Tuskegee.
Tuskegee, Ala., May 28.—The annual commencement exercises at Tuskegee institute were held this afternoon in the presence of many visitors. Dr. Booker T. Washington, president of the diplomas. The address to the graduates was delivered by Dr. Robert E. Jones, editor of the Southwestern Christian Advocate, New Orleans.

MAY MUSICAL FESTIVAL IS HELD AT MITCHELL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Mitchell, S. D., May 28.—Many music-lovers from out-of-town gathered in Mitchell today for the opening of the annual May musical festival. The attractions this year include: The Minnesota Symphony orchestra, and several noted soloists, in addition to a student chorus of 100 voices.

WHISKEY DISAPPEARS FROM BARREL IN MYSTERIOUS WAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Tomah, Wis., May 28.—Contents of a 35 gallon barrel of whiskey which arrived here late yesterday and was stored in the C. M. & St. P. depot over night, have disappeared through an unusual theft. The thieves crawled under the depot, bored with an auger a hole through the floor and the bottom of the barrel drained off the whiskey and disappeared without leaving trace of their identity or losing any of the whiskey. Today the freight house crew found only an empty barrel safe behind the double padlocks on the building.

IN MEMORIAM
UNFURL thy dear folds to the breezes of May, Flag of our pride this Memorial Day. Thy stars are the jewels of Liberty crowned; With thy stripes the heart of our nation is bound. Dear emblem of freedom, tenderly wave O'er each sacred mound, o'er each lowly grave. Where Sleep our brave dead.
WE trim thy dear folds in fragrance and bloom, In honor of those who rest in the tomb; Our soldier heroes! today it is ours To strew thy low beds with beautiful flowers: Sweet gems of the sod, all wet with the dew, With hearts full of love we bring them to you, Our dear "Boys in Blue"

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

WHY WOMEN REMEMBER ANNIVERSARIES.

ALMOST all women are born symbolists. If more men realized that fact we should have more happy marriages.

What is simply an ordinary, unimportant fact to a man, and nothing more, is often the symbol of many vast, important facts to a woman. That is why an ordinary, sensible woman will sometimes make a terrible fuss over what seems a very little thing to a man; and that is why an ordinary kind-hearted man will sometimes be hard and unsympathetic over what seems a very big thing to a woman.

That is why the least sentimental wife always remembers her wedding anniversary, and that is why the most devoted husband sometimes forgets the great day.

A young couple I used to know had their first quarrel because he left her to go to a ball game one Saturday afternoon when they had only been married a few months.

She didn't want to go but she professed herself quite willing to have him go, and thinking all was plain sailing, he went. When he came back he found his wife enveloped in that peculiar atmosphere of constraint which every young husband has occasionally encountered.

All attempts to break through it proved vain. He was honestly mystified. He really had no idea what was the matter, and after several rebuffs, grew hostile in his turn. Of course the miserable misunderstanding finally came to a head and pride and formal politeness dissolved into tears on one side and reassurances on the other.

When the explanation stage arrived, the husband was truly astonished to find that it was all because he had gone to the ball game without her. "But you told me to go," he protested, with the obtuseness of a big blundering man.

"I wanted you to go if you wanted to, but I didn't want you to go if you didn't want to," she explained, woman-wise. "But I thought of all the times you would leave me in the future. It wasn't at all the fact that you went this time that troubled me. It was the thought that probably your tastes would differ more and more and some day you would always go off by yourself to have your good times."

To an unmarried man that probably sounds like the veriest nonsense. To a married man it probably sounds sadly familiar. And to a woman it surely sounds natural and sensible.

Such is the symbolism of woman which sees in one little fact a thousand big facts.

And such is the misery this symbolism causes when it isn't understood. Any man who will take this tendency into account will double his chances of matrimonial happiness.

pint of sour milk (buttermilk is better), one tablespoon of melted butter, one teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon soda, two tablespoons of sugar, bake. Italian Eggs—Boil as many eggs as will be required, for twenty minutes. Drain into cold water and when cold remove the shells. Cut a slice from the bottom of each egg so it will stand. Then cut the eggs in halves, remove the yolks, season with salt, pepper, butter and a little onion juice. Mash together, add a little milk to the mixture, beat until light and smooth, fill the hollow whites, and heat in the molds. Place in a hot proof dish and set in the oven for eight minutes. Pour a tomato sauce around them, garnish with parsley or watercress and send to the table.

Potato Dumplings—Take three large boiled potatoes and run through the ricer or sieve; add one well-beaten egg, one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley and salt and pepper to taste. Mix the above ingredients thoroughly and make in little balls and drop into the boiling stock. Keep boiling briskly until the dumplings come to the top. Try one first, and should the dumplings go to pieces when boiling, add a little more flour.

The Kitchen Cabinet

Porcelain Dish—One which is in many a cluster. Plump grapes hung down, dead ripe and a melon cut in thin, delicious slices. A cake that seemed mosaic-work, in spices. Two tiny cups with golden tolls sunny and pink inside with chocolate like honey.

—T. B. Aldrich.

MUTTON FOR THE SICK.

Mutton juice or extract is obtained as is beef juice or extract. One way is to broil a piece of meat on both sides, then cut in fine pieces and press out the juice in a ricer or lemon squeezer.

Mutton Broth—Wipe three pounds of mutton, remove the skin and fat and cut the meat into one-inch pieces. Put into a kettle with the bones, cover with cold water. Heat gradually to the boiling point and season with salt and pepper if allowed. Cook slowly until the meat is tender, strain, cool, remove the fat. Reheat and add oatmeal, barley or rice, three tablespoonfuls will be sufficient for two quart of broth.

Mutton Chop in Paper Bag—A delicious and dainty bit of meat may be prepared for an invalid by broiling or roasting a chop in a paper bag or a piece of letter paper folded to hold in the steam and juices. Grease the paper before putting in the chop. Season and serve piping hot.

Montana Steak—Chop a pound of lean mutton free from bone, add a beaten egg, a half cup of milk, a teaspoonful of salt, pepper and a teaspoonful of onion juice, make in the form of small cakes and broil.

Broiled Loin Chops—Remove the superfluous fat and roll the flank around the tenderloin, fastening with skewers. Place the chops on the broiler greased with mutton fat. Cook from six to eight minutes, turning frequently. Serve with lemon juice and parsley. If the meat needs fat a little butter may be added before the lemon juice.

Pan broiling is next in order when broiling before a clear fire or a gas flame is not convenient. Put the chops into a perfectly hot, very lightly greased frying pan and cook in the same manner as above.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Gitchell Kirk

Take no extra steps in the preparation of dinner. Have the food and utensils close at hand—a kitchen cabinet or shelves for food and cooking material such as sugar, pepper, baking powder, spices, sugar, etc., small utensils in a drawing table, or hung on hooks within easy reaching distance. The table and sink must be high enough so a woman will not have to stoop; from 84 to 36 inches in height and under or near a window when possible. This will save a woman's health and strength more than all the new-fangled kitchen utensils ever invented.

Use as few dishes as possible and clean up as you go along. Set things back in place immediately after using. Work neatly, quickly and quietly.

The dress should be of washable material, made plain; aprons with out-gathers and preferably of light colored material. Hands and nails clean, hair tied up, and no jewelry.

Use light colored material for the kitchen and white used wherever practical. The work should be pleasant and healthful.

If you cannot remember recipes copy them on a perforated card or paper. When ready to cook or bake, hang the recipe on a hook over the table. When not in use, file in a card index where they will be kept clean in order. As a result, less failures go into the garbage can. Use a half pint measuring cup which costs five cents and is divided into quart, half and one-third cups. Measure with other people's and trusting in God and your own resources.

In other words, "luck" is "pluck." We cannot expect to have it. We must be willing to do the work. The strong, the honest, the brave, the determined, the more successful they are. We must go forward or be forced back. Who of us wants to go back? None of us, of course not. And yet, by our actions, not by our words, we daily demonstrate just what we really are. What we want and what we are going to get. For as a man sows so shall he reap. We cannot expect to live an improvident life and have ease and comfort and be immune from want in our old age. The way to get many of our old age is to be generous and to be generous is to be generous. Our earnings capacity will never be diminished.

It is a fine thing to say that if you live to be ninety you will die young. The man that carries a boy's heart in his bosom is really the man that succeeds. He is filled with enthusiasm, he has faith in himself, that is one of the essential requisites, faith in one self. To be able to earn is good, to be able to save is better, to be able to both earn and save is best. We should all try and save some. Now let us remember that to earn is good, to save better, to earn and save is best. Let us try to do that which is best.

I was in Chicago for the Gazette a few days ago, and while there I went with some of the newspaper men on a trip out around the stockyards, "back of the yard," they call it in Chicago. While on this trip we stopped at the United Charities Office and one of the women in charge kindly explained their system to me. As she was speaking there entered a woman of about sixty years of age who took a seat quietly in the next room. She was, we were told, the wife of a one time prosperous stockman who had been in business for years and every one supposed they were well fixed, judging from the way they lived. When the husband died, and affairs were settled the children were found heir to the very brink of poverty and for the past four years the bureau had been helping her some. In a way, this woman's poverty was unprofitable. Her husband had not failed in business or gone down under the pressure of a financial panic. They simply lived right up to the extreme edge of their income while they were going. They were improvident. So let us remember that to earn is good, to save better, to earn and save is best. Let us try to do that which is best.

Our Wives. Mrs. Gabby (looking over her husband's shoulder)—"What a queer game poker is. Do they all have to have all the cards in their hands the same suit as you have?" Mr. G.—(Answer censored).—(Cleveland Leader).

teaspoon; fats are packed down into measuring cup; 3 Tsp. equals 1 T.; 16 T. equals 1 pint or measuring cup; 2 C. equals one pint.

The following menus are planned where gas is used for fuel; where gasoline, oil or coal is used, more time must be allowed for preparing the meals.

These menus are planned for economy of food material, but with sufficient food value to build the required amount of body tissue and the necessary energy.

No tea or coffee is planned for the children in these menus.

Dinner. Stuffed Calves' Hearts. Boiled Potatoes. Dandelion Greens. Rhubarb Tapioca Pudding. Coffee.

Preparation—time, two hours. Two hours before the dinner clean and prepare the hearts as directed and cook. Make the pudding so that it will have time to cool. Wash the dandelion greens thoroughly and put liver to cook with ham bone or plain in a little water 30 minutes before dinner, then have the potatoes ready to boil. Set the table and make the coffee.

Stuffed Calves' Hearts. Clean and wash four calves' hearts and stuff with a highly seasoned bread dressing and tie up well so as not to lose it. Brown in bacon or salt pork fat; while browning season with salt, pepper, one chopped onion, half a carrot, sprig of parsley and any other vegetables you may choose which have flavor as hearts need much seasoning. When nicely browned add one and a half cup of stock or water and cover. Cook slowly one and a half hours. Make a gravy and serve over the hearts on the platter.

Rhubarb Tapioca. Cut up rhubarb 1 pint, fine tapioca, 1 1/2 cups; lemon, 1; sugar, 1 cup; water, 2 cups; butter, 1 tablespoonful; salt.

Cook the tapioca in water until it is clear. If course tapioca is used it must be soaked in cold water. Add the salt. Place the rhubarb in the baking dish and pour the tapioca over it. Sprinkle over the sugar, lemon juice and butter. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve cold with rich milk.

We must go forward or be forced back. Who of us wants to go back? None of us, of course not. And yet, by our actions, not by our words, we daily demonstrate just what we really are. What we want and what we are going to get. For as a man sows so shall he reap. We cannot expect to live an improvident life and have ease and comfort and be immune from want in our old age. The way to get many of our old age is to be generous and to be generous is to be generous. Our earnings capacity will never be diminished.

It is a fine thing to say that if you live to be ninety you will die young. The man that carries a boy's heart in his bosom is really the man that succeeds. He is filled with enthusiasm, he has faith in himself, that is one of the essential requisites, faith in one self. To be able to earn is good, to be able to save is better, to be able to both earn and save is best. We should all try and save some. Now let us remember that to earn is good, to save better, to earn and save is best. Let us try to do that which is best.

I was in Chicago for the Gazette a few days ago, and while there I went with some of the newspaper men on a trip out around the stockyards, "back of the yard," they call it in Chicago. While on this trip we stopped at the United Charities Office and one of the women in charge kindly explained their system to me. As she was speaking there entered a woman of about sixty years of age who took a seat quietly in the next room. She was, we were told, the wife of a one time prosperous stockman who had been in business for years and every one supposed they were well fixed, judging from the way they lived. When the husband died, and affairs were settled the children were found heir to the very brink of poverty and for the past four years the bureau had been helping her some. In a way, this woman's poverty was unprofitable. Her husband had not failed in business or gone down under the pressure of a financial panic. They simply lived right up to the extreme edge of their income while they were going. They were improvident. So let us remember that to earn is good, to save better, to earn and save is best. Let us try to do that which is best.

Our Wives. Mrs. Gabby (looking over her husband's shoulder)—"What a queer game poker is. Do they all have to have all the cards in their hands the same suit as you have?" Mr. G.—(Answer censored).—(Cleveland Leader).

Every Day Talks For Every Day People...

So many of us who are not prosperous lay the fault to "luck." Max O'Rell says "luck means rising at six o'clock in the morning, living on a dollar a day if you can't do more, and being content with what you have, with other people's and trusting in God and your own resources."

In other words, "luck" is "pluck." We cannot expect to have it. We must be willing to do the work. The strong, the honest, the brave, the determined, the more successful they are. The New Food-Drink Instant Postum

Is in thousands of homes where health is valued.

Former coffee users who have felt the pinch of indigestion, headache, heart disturbance, nervous irritation, etc., have written by the score, telling of remarkable benefits following the change from coffee to Instant Postum.

A level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water dissolves instantly and makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

Thanks for the sample of Instant Postum sent me. I had been drinking coffee for a long time and thought it would be difficult to give it up, but I was mistaken.

While I was drinking coffee I always felt exhausted and weighed but 115 lbs. After using Instant Postum I soon recovered and now am as healthy as any person can be. I now weigh 120 lbs. and am steadily gaining in weight. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular (must be boiled.)

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water.

Both kinds are sold by grocers everywhere.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES FOR EDMUND ROSSITER

Last Rites Held for Old Resident of Rock County at Home in Orfordville.

Orfordville, May 29.—The funeral services for Edmund S. Rossiter were held on Wednesday afternoon and conducted by Rev. William Sainsbury, who took for his text, "The resurrection of the dead." The service was held in the Orfordville cemetery. Edmund S. Rossiter, aged 71 years, died at his home in Orfordville, Monday evening, at six o'clock, May 19, 1913. Mr. Rossiter was born May 19, 1842, in Lincolnshire, England, and was brought to this country by his parents two years later, when they made their home in New York state. In 1860 the family removed to Wisconsin and settled in Spring Valley, in Rock county, and in this neighborhood nearly all the members of the family have since resided. Of Mr. Rossiter's immediate family, his daughter survives, Mrs. William Turner of Donnelly, Minn., and all of his own brothers and sisters, who are Mrs. B. J. Hungerford, Mrs. Charles Taylor, and Charles H. Rossiter, all of Orfordville, and H. Rossiter of Manley, Iowa. Edmund Rossiter served with honor all through the Civil war, enlisting in the Thirtieth Wisconsin regiment in Company G, which was raised in Orfordville. Captain Randall, who now resides in Brodhead, was in attendance at the funeral of his old comrade.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

THE HEAD.

By Howard L. Rann.

THE head is a round, bullet-shaped attachment to the human body which has several important functions, the most important of which is to store up thought and let go of it with a loud noise. Some heads store up vast quantities of thought which is not noticeable on the outside unless for her photograph. Mr. Webster's corner the entire conversation and lead it in the direction of their hobby.

Commonly speaking, people have nothing to say about the shape of their heads. If they did, there would be fewer peaked promontories with hair on the outside, and one large, prominent nose.

The average head is decorated with three masses of protuberances, known as the ears and nose, together with the soothing protuberance entitled the double chin, which we shall describe more at length tomorrow. If it were not for this equipment, Mr. Webster's head assayed 94 per cent brains and 6 per cent waste, but none of the waste was allowed to creep into his orations.

A great many people have tried to grow a head as Mrs. Webster's, but after they got one they found they didn't have anything to put in it except rarified atmosphere.

While the head is fastened on with considerable security, some people have the habit of looking it on the slightest provocation, and for fear they came down town for. There is nothing more aggravating than a husband who is always losing his head and ordering brick ches in place of loaf sugar.

The head is connected with the rest of the body by the neck, which enables it to wag back and forth and make emphatic gestures. It is an alarming sight to see the head of a drowsy man pitch forward over the door and run and then bring up with a short jerk and stand erect with an apologetic look.

Unsightly eruptions, pimples, face blotches, etc., are caused by a single night by the mild, antiseptic wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema. This removes the cause of the skin eruptions and heals the itching skin in no time at all. A 50c bottle proves it.

Eczema and its allied diseases, D. D. D. is an absolutely reliable remedy. There is nothing else that we can recommend so highly.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams
BY WALT MASON

"Oh say, what is this thing called Fame, and is it worth our while. We seek it till we're old and lame, for weary mile on mile; we seek a gem among the hay, for wheat among the chaff; and in the end some heartless jay will write our epitaph. The naked facts it will relate, and little else beside: 'This man was born on such a date, on such a date he died.'"

AT THE died. The gravestones in FINISH the boneyard tell all we shall ever know of men who struggled passing well for glory; long ago. They had their iridescent schemes and lived to see them fail; they had their dreams, as you have dreams, and all of no avail. The grave-stones calmly tell their fate, the upshot of their pride: This man was born on such a date, on such a date he died. The great men of your fathers' time, with laurel on each brow, the theme of every poet's rhyme—where are those giants now? Their names are written in the books which no one ever reads; and on the scroll—where no one looks—the record of their deeds. The idler by the churchyard gate this legend hath espied: "This man was born on such a date, on such a date he died."

TRAINING SCHOOL GIRLS ENJOY TALK ON "BIRDS"

H. L. Skavlem Gives Interesting Lecture at Library Wednesday Afternoon.

H. L. Skavlem gave the training school students a talk on the subject of "Birds," Wednesday afternoon. The talk was given at the public library and the mounted specimens were used to assist the young women in identifying birds. The hour spent was most profitable and enjoyable. Many of the girls learned more in the hour than they had ever known before about birds. Many were inspired to study birds more than before, and the beneficial results of Mr. Skavlem's lecture are unquestioned. This fine opportunity was greatly appreciated.

Freaks of Lightning.

Lightning has struck, plucked feathers from and insides out of chickens and, better than some cooks, roasted them to a proper turn for the table. It has roasted apples on the tree and corn on the stalk, and has struck rooster and potato vines and cooked the goobers and tubers in the very ground.

Going to School in the Summer!

Of course you can't attend school in the summer—if you think you can't. Otherwise, it's easy. A certain percentage of human activity is regulated by the thermometer, the rest by will power.

You may either do what you know you OUGHT TO DO, or you may do what you find to be the EASIEST.

Take your choice—do the one thing, and you will fail; do the other thing, and you will succeed.

If you are so situated that you are able to go to school NOW, and you feel that you ought to go to school; wouldn't it be somewhat of a triumph of the will over the inclination for you to make up your mind to do the right thing at once?

Wouldn't it be a source of some satisfaction to be able to take a good position indoors next winter at a good salary, where promotion always follows effort? Wouldn't that be a more alluring picture than the one you see when you think that then you will be doing just what you are doing now—with no hope for anything but very slow advancement?

Going to School in the Summer Time is Not a Bad Job After All.

Besides if any one time of the year is better than any other, the spring and summer is that time, as our attendance is always smaller during that period and hence every student will receive more individual attention. You know what that means. You will also graduate at a time of the year when few are finishing and thus have choice of many good positions.

Enrollment for the Summer Term Begins June 2

AND EVERY MONDAY DURING THE MONTH OF JUNE, SUMMER TERM CLOSES AUGUST 15. SPECIAL RATES FOR THOSE ENROLLING NOW.

Special Courses for Teachers and High School Graduates

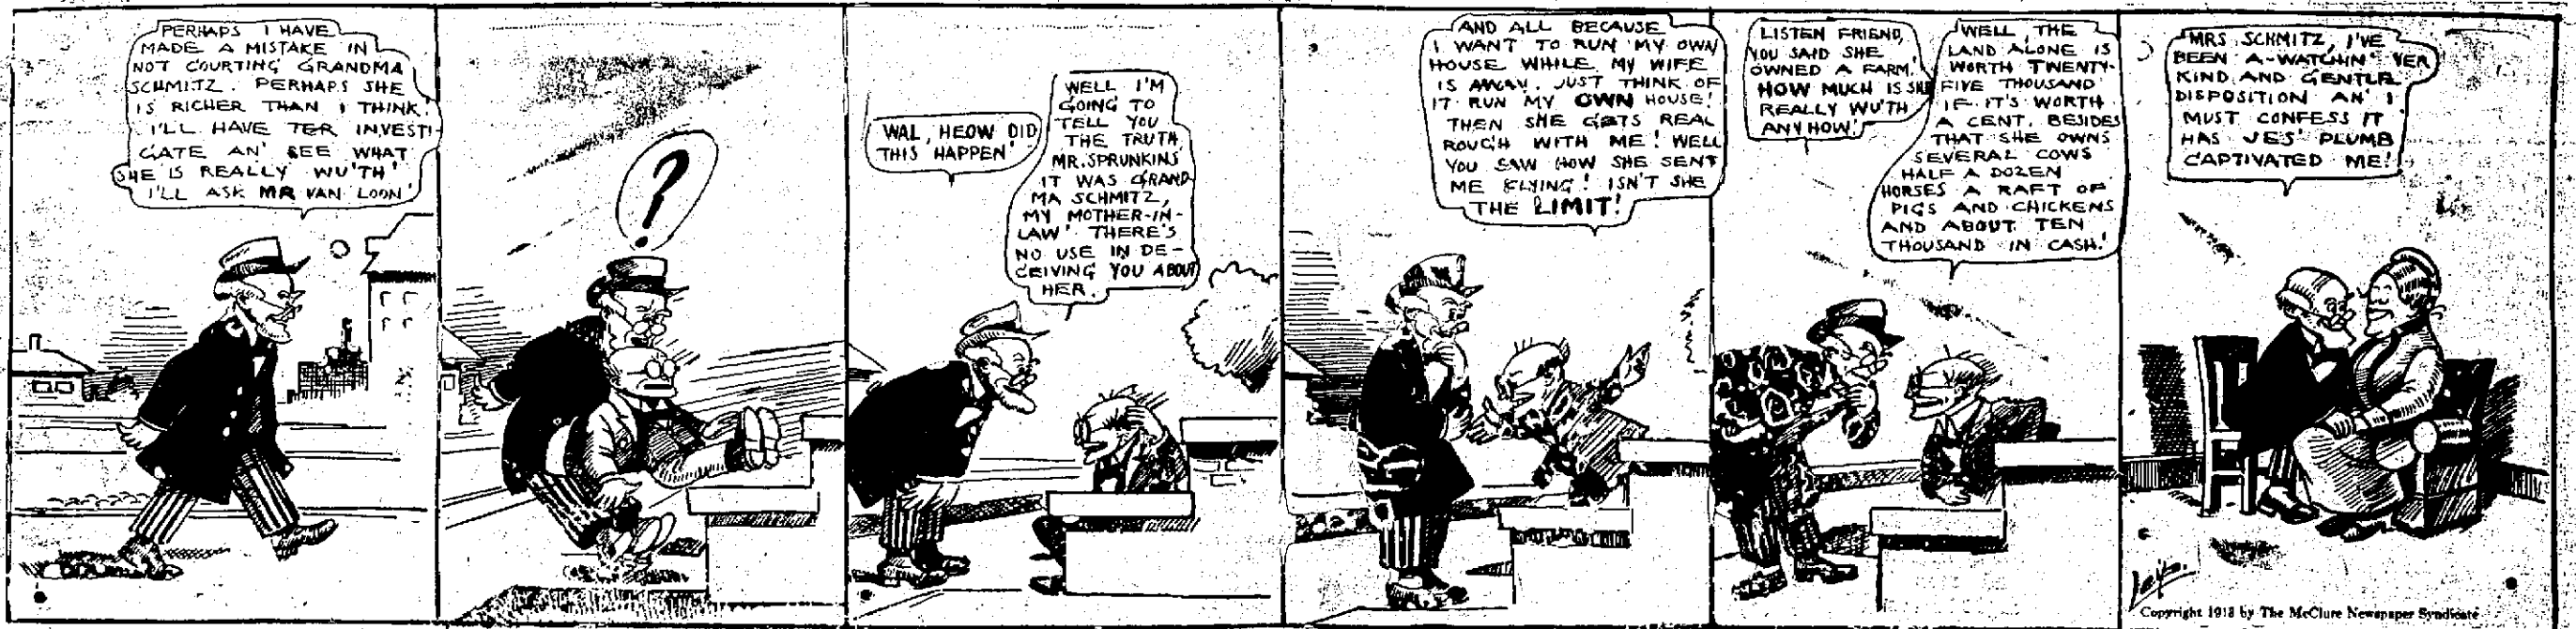

Probably some are thinking of going to university or higher school of learning. If so, don't you think a knowledge of Stenography or Shorthand or Typewriting or Penmanship would be a great help. We have had many young people pay all expenses by means of their Shorthand knowledge. You can do the same and in a few month's time.

THE DAUGHTER OF DAVID KERR

By HARRY KING TOOTLE
Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

"Yet your life here—" He left the rest to her.

"No, this doesn't satisfy me either."

"In a word, Gloria, you're not happy."

Instead of replying directly, she asked with a drooping of her hands to her sides in a hopeless fashion:

"Is anybody in the whole world happy? Are you happy?"

"Don't you think I am?"

"I'm afraid not."

The appealing way she looked at him, her whole soul welling up in her eyes, brought him to his feet and set him to pacing nervously up and down.

He looked fatigued, distressed, beside himself with care. She forgave him everything but his studied refusal to let her share whatever weighed upon him.

Could he not see, she thought, how she yearned to tell him that whither he went there she would go also, that his joys would be all her joys and that his burdens would be divided with her, that love divided all sorrow and doubled all joy?

Wright could stand it no longer. He saw her before him, trembling with that same emotion that shook him, aflame with the same fire that burned within him, mutely questioning him with her big, soulful eyes. How could he make amends for that month of neglect except by telling her what she long ago had guessed, but what more recently she had a right to doubt? He felt weak where he wanted to be strong.

To hear, from her lips that she loved him was all that he needed to make him invincible. With her acknowledged love in his heart there was nothing he could not do.

"Oh, Gloria, I can't tell you what a fight I'm making. You wouldn't understand. Business is business, outside a woman's realm, but I've missed you so much this last month."

At this declaration she caught her breath. Joy, she found, could sometimes prove the twin of pain. That this man, this strong, fearless man, in his struggles had missed her, had intimate a longing for dependence upon her, made her heart-bound. Love, even when his banners have been rung forth to the breeze leagues before the castle wall is reached, never ceases to be a surprise when at last the knock at the gate is heard.

"You've no right to say your work is outside of woman's realm if you're—if you've missed something a woman could supply."

"Something the one woman could supply," he corrected.

"I must be going," she said, rising from her chair. "I'm afraid Mrs. Hayes isn't coming."

He stepped between her and the door, letting her take several steps forward, because they brought her closer to him, before he said:

"No, Gloria, you must hear me. I didn't mean to speak now, of all times, but it had to be some day, and perhaps it is all for the best now."

The woman leaned her hand upon the table for support, turning half away from him.

"Don't Joe, please don't," she murmured. "I must go."

"No, no, I must tell you. You've asked me if you could help me. I want you to help me; you can help me always. I love you. I want you to be my wife. I have loved you, oh, so long; and most of all, I've felt that you have needed me. Don't tell me that it was just selfishness, dear, that made me feel that my protecting arms should be about you always. Love is love, a law unto itself alone. We must recognize it and how to it, because it brings us happiness."

He came a step nearer, but she did not turn to him. She stood half turned away, her eyes downcast, her lips parted into half a smile. Her breath came fast and she could feel her heart beat. Then she heard him say in a lower tone, so gently:

"Nothing to say, Gloria? Can't you believe me?"

She turned to find herself gazing into his eyes.

"Yes, I believe in you—as I believe in my father."

That answer was not enough. He had asked her to be his wife. Not yet had she replied.

"Say that you care for me, Gloria; tell me that you love me."

"I've always cared, Joe; I do love you."

"For better or worse?" He held out his arms.

"To the end of the world," she whispered as his arms were folded about her.

And as their lips met in their first kiss, Wright saw in her eyes the light that never yet has shone on land or sea.

CHAPTER XIV.

Even as Wright held Gloria in his arms there came back to him her words:

"Yes, I believe in you—as I believe in my father."

They were like lead about his heart, and cautioned him that he must get her away from Belmont as quickly as possible. Words of love must be postponed, new-found bliss be treated as commonplace, until he had finished his hard task of persuading her to go away.

"You've made me supremely happy, Gloria. I want you to believe in me, and trust me—always."

She smiled up at him her love and confidence as she answered, "I do, I do."

"I want you to be happy, and I know you're not happy in Belmont. You must go away at once. I'll follow you."

"But, why?" she questioned. The smile was still there, but surprise deepened, forth from her eyes. "I'm happy now."

Wright laughed at her with that delightfully patronizing air of possession that lovers assume, caught her in his arms once more and kissed her.

"I know, dear, but you'll be happier. I can't explain. You wouldn't understand. Can't you trust me?"

"Yes, but father would—"

"He won't oppose your going. I know he won't." At thought of David Kerr and the fierce fight they were waging Wright became insistent. "Do this for me, Gloria. You can get a late train for St. Louis tonight. I'll have Mrs. Gilbert go with you. Next week I'll join you, and we'll make plans for the wedding."

"But, Joe, that's so foolish," she complained. "I like Belmont immensely now." Then she struck a more serious note. "Besides, it wouldn't be fair to father. He's put me through, and I'm not going to disappoint him. To go away—well, I feel it would be disloyal."

"You can write him we're engaged," he pleaded. "Then I'll go to see him."

Gloria could not altogether understand his insistence. Then, too, to send her away just after they had found each other was something she could not explain to her father.

Further discussion was put out of the question by the appearance of Judge Gilbert.

"Would you object to waiting for Mrs. Hayes in this office?" he asked, pointing to the room next to that in which the men had been conferring. He smiled as he added, "Mr. Wright came on business, you know."

"I think he transacted it with me, Judge Gilbert," she could not help replying. Then she asked Wright with a smile, "You won't be long?"

He walked with her to the door, to Gilbert's surprise, crossed the threshold and went into the little office. Somehow or other—such things are always mysteries, certainly they are accidents—the door seemed to close of its own accord.

"Wait for me a little while," he said, taking both her hands in his. "It's going to be such a glorious world for us. I never knew what happiness meant till now. To be wherever you were has always made life sweet, but now everything takes on a new meaning transmuted by the glory of being loved by you."

She loosened one hand from his grasp and put it over his mouth.

"Naughty boy, you must go back to work. You're playing truant here. I mustn't listen to you. When I listen to you, you make me forget everything but that I love you. And now I want to be alone and think."

To leave her for an instant was like having his life's sun in eclipse. At last she freed herself from his arms and bade him go. He had gone as far as the door, his hand upon the knob, when she quickly crossed the small space between them, threw her arms around his neck and whispered:

"Remember, dear, in whatever you do, I'm with you. May my love and my confidence support you ever."

It seemed to him like a benediction. Again were his arms around her, and their lips pressed their hearts' last, long love. Gently he released himself from her embrace, and with a parting smile was gone.

Wright stepped into the library, his eyes upon Gloria until the closed door shut her from his sight. He turned to

"I like Belmont immensely now."

And himself face to face with David Kerr.

While Wright had been talking to Gloria, Kerr and Kendall had joined the attorney in the library. As soon as the editor saw with whom he had to deal, he recognized how hard pressed were his friends the enemy, since no go-between was employed. He was being asked to treat with the boss of Belmont himself.

"You know Mr. Kendall and Mr. Kerr," Gilbert said, without resorting to his social manner, as was his custom. This he knew to be a case of diamond cut diamond, and there was no occasion for any seeming show of friendliness.

"I had the pleasure of meeting them at your house."

It was easy to see from the direct opening of the conversation that there was to be little beating around the bush. Gilbert took a chair at the head of the long library table. Wright sat to his left, where he could see the door of the room in which Gloria waited for him. Opposite to him were Kerr and Kendall.

"It's been a hot campaign," were the boss' first words, "but we can afford to let bygones be bygones."

Wright was not to be led into any admission which might be used against him later, and therefore would not assent to this.

"What I can afford has nothing to do with it. The one question is: Can Belmont afford to give itself up to this terminal trust that leaves no stone unturned in its effort to steal the streets and parks of the town? That is only the first step. Where do you propose it shall end?"

DINNER STORIES

"I want somebody to show me where to unload this coal," said the grimy looking man at the kitchen door.

"Well, you needn't ask me," replied the young woman thus addressed.

"I like China," Mr. Straight said. "My regard for China will not let me consider her from a purely selfish and commercial viewpoint. I cannot, in this matter, put myself in the position of the young lady that was asked by her chum:

"Do you think, dear, that it's better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all?"

"Why of course it is," the young lady replied, "provided he lets you keep all his presents."

Reverend Appeal.

A mother had told her little girl to be very polite when the minister came to dinner. The little girl wanted some butter that was just in front of the reverend gentleman, so she said:

"In the name of the Lord, dear pastor, will you please pass me the butter?"

After He Is Gone.

In order that she may be guided by his gentle influence in the future, Mrs. Lyndner John Appleton has had her husband say into a phonograph, "Make that go as far as you can." After he is gone and she is a widow she will have the phonograph repeat this record to her whenever she starts down town to spend as much as a dime.

Atchison Globe.

William D. Straight, the financier, was discussing the American banking as she tossed her head scornfully.

"Indeed?" was the retort. "And I'm the coal man, the father of three children, one laundry lady, one charlady and if you don't show me where to put this coal I'll call the woman of the house."

"This was altogether too much for the haughty cook," she ventured humbly, then meekly led the way to the coal cellar.

William D. Straight, the financier, was discussing the American bank-

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, May 29, 1873.—Major C. L. Robinson, formerly a leading member of the Janesville division of Sons of Temperance, now of Binghamton, New York, has been appointed a representative to the national division of the Sons of Temperance, which is to meet in New York City on the eighteenth of June. In considering for his valuable services to the cause and their esteem for him as their friend, the Janesville division voted last night to present Major Robinson with a handsome regalia, valued at twenty dollars. The regalia consisted of a band of velvet trimmed with gold, but is of exquisite workmanship.
Mr. Jones will deliver a lecture this evening on the spirit pictures and manifestations of the supposed spirits in the library rooms over the postoffice. Mr. Jones thinks he has discovered what manner of spirits are and will inform his audience this evening. Dr. Judd is driving the most beautiful pair of matched trotting horses that has appeared on our streets in many a year. They are dark bays, have a fine open slashing gait, and are unusually well-matched.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.
The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end.
There are any number of concerns in the country who are living their lives by worded advertisements offering golden opportunities and these unscrupulous people flood fertile ground for work among the masses.
Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted. All newspapers have this experience.
But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper and find its way into the columns.
The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.

OFFICIAL NOTICE NO. 17.

Sewer Assessment.
Office of the Board of Public Works, Janesville, Wis., May 28, 1913.
To whom it may concern:
The Board of Public Works, having determined that during the ensuing year sewers be constructed and paid for by special assessment upon the following named streets, to-wit:
On Galea street from center line of Park avenue to a point 250 feet easterly.
On Monroe street from Glen street to a point 225 feet north.
On Galea street from the end of the present sewer to the center line of Galea street.
Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that the Board of Public Works will meet on the 6th day of June at 2:00 p. m. in the afternoon at their office in the City Hall in said City for the purpose of making such assessment and that all persons interested may appear and be heard upon the matter of the assessment and the apportionment of the expense of constructing said sewers among the lots, parts of lots and parcels of land fronting or abutting on each side of said sewerage districts. Notice is further given that at least one day prior to such hearing the board of public works will make and file in the City Clerk's office a table in which the names of the lots, parts of lots and parcels of land to be assessed on all the lots, parts of lots and parcels of land in each of said sewerage districts, which table shall be open to public inspection.
(Signed)
J. A. FATHURS,
City Clerk.
C. K. MILLITARY,
C. F. KENNER,
Board of Public Works.
